Looking for career direction?
You’ve come to the right place!

This program should help a lot of people. I wish when I was in high school there had been something like this to help me.

Student at San Antonio College

TypeFocus will help you find satisfying work.

One of the first things to do when looking for work is to decide what kind of work to look for. This website will help you do that through three career assessments.

You know that everyone is different to some degree or other. Once you discover what makes you unique, you can use that information to select jobs that will honor your strengths.

The payoff is that you will find work that will be a good fit for your personality, interests and values and that means you will be successful where it counts . . . in the long run. As you understand yourself better, you will understand others better as well.

“Everything I feel about myself and have learned about myself through much trial and error in my first few years at university have been accurately relayed to me via this assessment so far. I wish I had done this thing when I first stepped onto campus two years ago.”

Student at San Diego State University

"Best career finding site I've ever seen so far. I learned a lot about myself."

Student at Simon Fraser University

“This is an amazing tool in helping people narrow down their strengths and provide them a foundation to start looking at their careers and life skills. I really enjoy assessments as once again they are so accurate in where I am at in my career. This assessment allowed me to see where I need to work on things in my career.”

Assess Your Personality!

Hi Student Name
Welcome to TypeFocus

The first step to discovering your natural strengths is to assess your personality.

When answering the questions, think about what YOU really prefer - not what you have to do from work or family obligations. There are no right or wrong answers so be as honest as you can. Work fairly quickly - often your first thought is most accurate.

When you are finished, your personality results will be displayed immediately and you can begin to find out more about yourself.

The assessment has 62 questions and will take 5-10 minutes.

Click on the Start button to the right.
Personality Results: INFP

- Find rewarding work by following a career path that fits your natural personality strengths.
- Learn more about what makes you unique by using the links on the left.

Step 1 will be complete when all three assessments are done. Then go to Step 2: Explore Occupations

PERSONALITY
General Description:
INFPs are creative and complex. INFPs hold harmony and friendship close to their hearts. In their own quiet way, they want their work, friends and school to reflect these values. When they focus on these values, they can be inspired for short periods of time, especially if they work by themselves. INFPs are quiet and adaptable; they won’t easily share their inner selves (or their sense of humor) with others unless they have built a trusting relationship. They will likely be bored quickly by routine jobs that don’t relate to their inner values of harmony and friendship.

Summary of Careers
INFPs need to believe in their work; they need their work to reflect their values of unity and friendship. Their work often is about improving other people’s lives through their verbal skills. They work best when they have the freedom to creatively respond to the needs of the moment for short periods of time. The type of careers that honor these traits include fine arts, counseling, writing, teaching (art, music and drama), library work and entertainment.

Neuropsychologists and Clinical Neuropsychologists

Job Description
Apply theories and principles of neuropsychology to diagnose and treat disorders of higher cerebral functioning.

General Job Requirements
Experience
Extensive skill, knowledge, and experience are needed for these occupations. Many require more than five years of experience. For example, surgeons must complete four years of college and an additional five to seven years of specialized medical training to be able to do their job.

Education
Most of these occupations require graduate school. For example, they may require a master's degree, and some require a Ph.D., M.D., or J.D. (law degree).

Training
Employees may need some on-the-job training, but most of these occupations assume that the person will already have the required skills, knowledge, work-related experience, and/or training.
